Election And Voting Regulations Or "How To Get Into Politics"

Do you know someone you think should be on the Greenbelt City Council? Would you yourself run for the office? What do you need to do to get the person of your choice on the city's governing body? For that matter, how do you qualify to vote?

Here are the regulations for citizen participation in Greenbelt City elections, as explained by City Clerk Winfield McCamy:

Anyone who is eligible to vote in Greenbelt City elections is eligible to run for one of the five seats on the city council. ELECTION DAY is September 15, 1959; the term of office is two years.

Registration

REGISTRATION DAY for voters is ANY DAY, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.—just go to the city offices and sign up with Mrs. McCamy. If your work during the day and can't register then, wait until special registration days are announced later in the summer. During special registration days Mrs. McCamy will sign you up during the evening.

Once you have registered for Greenbelt elections, you need not register again as long as you live here continuously, provided you have voted in at least one of the two previous city elections. If you've never registered here, or if you moved out of town and then moved back, or if you missed voting in two register again in order to vote.

Eligibility

To be eligible to vote in Greenbelt elections, you must be a citizen of the United States, eligible to vote in Maryland for at least one year—of Greenbelt at least six months continuously before Election Day, and living here at the time of election. Employees of the U. S. government, residing in Greenbelt, are eligible to vote in the city election and to run for city council posts, even though they normally vote in another state for state and national elections.

If you—or your candidate—are eligible to vote, here's what must be done to get a place on the ballot for City Councilman:

1—Get at least 33 and not more than 55 qualified registered voters to sign a nomination petition. You may use your own petition form, or get some from Mrs. McCamy; she also has an information form that will be helpful. You may use one sheet of paper or several.

2—Submit the signed petition to her (together with a $3 filing fee) not earlier than July 17 and not later than August 17. Mrs. McCamy will check the petition for valid signatures. Only registered voter's signatures are valid, and a voter may sign only ONE nomination petition even though he may vote for five candidates. Therefore, Mrs. McCamy will disqualify a voter's signature on the second and all subsequent petitions she receives on which it appears.

This means a voter should think twice before signing a nomination petition for someone he isn't really eager to back; it would make him unable to nominate someone else. This also means that the candidate (or the backers of a candidate) who file their petitions with Mrs. McCamy early in the July 17-August 17 period will have more time in which to get additional signatures if she disqualifies enough signatures to invalidate the petition.

Mrs. McCamy asks that married women signers of petitions use the form Mary Doe, not Mrs. John Doe. Her records show them as Mary Doe and if Mrs. McCamy doesn't recognize the name in its married form, she may not be able to check and accept it. With many new people in town she doesn't know, she must rely on her records in many cases.

3—Within 7 days of filing of a valid petition, Mrs. McCamy notifies the candidate. He then has 7 days within which to notify her he accepts the nomination. (In some cases, petitions are circulated without the candidate's say-so.) The ballot carries all persons nominated this way. But you can write in when you vote.

That's all there is to it. September 15 there'll be an election. If five candidates fail to win, majorities of the votes cast, there will be a run-off election 7 days later, at which up to twice as many candidates as there are vacancies to be filled may run. Council usually elects as Mayor the candidate who got the most votes.

Co-op Nursery School Group To Meet Monday

Breaking precedent, the Greenbelt Nursery School will hold an early summer meeting for the membership group for the 1959-1960 school year. Customarily, such meetings are not held until August—shortly before the school term begins. The reason for the early meeting, according to Mrs. Anne Driscoll, President, is the need to make arrangements for the move into the new quarters which the school will occupy next year. The meeting is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., Monday, June 22, at the home of Mrs. Helen Geller, 117 Northway. Parents of all children expecting to be enrolled in the Nursery School are requested to be present.

Last Friday, June 12, all children in this year's group held their "graduation" program, with their parents as eager onlookers. Wearing little mortar boards, the children presented a program of songs and games. They also exhibited paintings and other creative art work done during the year. Mrs. Eleanor Hodges, teacher of this year's group, was in charge of the program.

A new teacher, Mrs. Lisa Dalton, 11 Northway Extended, will be in charge of the group next year. Mrs. Driscoll has announced. She will replace Mrs. Hodges, who had resigned to devote full time to her family.

County Playgrounds

The playground season for thousands of Prince Georges County youngsters will open Monday morning, June 29 and will continue through August 14. Leadership will be provided by the County Recreation Department to conduct a varied program of activities for the seven-week period at sixty-one playgrounds throughout the County, including two in Greenbelt. A four-week program for retarded children will be held, June 29 to July 24 at the Calvert Homes and Ridgely center, in cooperation with the Prince Georges Association for Retarded Children. Playgrounds are open five days a week, 9 a.m. to 12 and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. A schedule of the week's activities, which include softball for boys and girls, volleyball, tetherball, games, crafts, nature, story telling, dramatics, special events will be posted at each playground.

The Recreation Department will conduct two days of intensive In-Service Training for all playground personnel on June 25 and 26 at the Riverdale Elementary School. Volunteers planning to assist at playgrounds this summer are also invited to attend this training session.

All communities in which playgrounds will be conducted have formed recreation councils.

Greenbelt Wins Award For Pedestrian Safety

Greenbelt, Washington, D. C., Hyattsville, Rockville, and College Park, have received awards in the American Automobile Association's twentieth Annual Pedestrian Protection Program, for their efforts to save pedestrian lives in traffic in 1958, according to John W. Childress, Manager, D. C. Division, American Automobile Association.

The awards were five of 189 to U. S. cities and nine to states in the AAA's national pedestrian safety program. Grand awards in the competition went to Detroit, Mich.; South Bend, Ind.; East Cleveland, Ohio, and the states of Conn., and Mich.

The cities submitting pedestrian reports were judged in the following categories: "Pedestrian Death and Injury Record," "Records and Uses," "Legislation and Enforcement," "Engineering," "Organization," "School Traffic Safety," and "Public Information."

Childress announced that the four Maryland communities winning awards in the contest were, Greenbelt, Hyattsville, Rockville, and College Park.

Greenbelt will receive a "No Death Certificate" for going nine consecutive years without a pedestrian fatality; Hyattsville will be presented with a certificate for seven consecutive years without a pedestrian death, Rockville for a five-year no-death record and College Park for no deaths in 1958.

JCC Open House

GHI Sets Up Special Committee To Draft Regulations On Pets

By Al Skolnik

A new chapter in the dog and cat issue is about to be opened as the result of a Greenbelt Homes, Inc. decision to appoint a three-man committee to draw up regulations and rules that will spell out the meaning of "nuisances" as related to dogs and cats.

Bernard Fritz, 2-C Woodland Way, and Steve Polaschik, 12-D Ridge, have been named to the committee. The GHI board of directors, desirous of having all groups represented, has suggested to management that a third member be chosen from among the dog owners.

It is expected that the committee will concentrate on listing those activities performed by pets which most reasonable people would agree constitute public nuisances. The list would then be submitted to the membership body for approval or revision.

The committee hopes that regulations adopted in this fashion will be upheld by the courts as a reasonable and proper exercise of corporation authority. If upheld by the courts, the failure of members to abide by the regulations could lead to contempt proceedings.

Turnover Data

Turnover figures released by GHI manager John O. Walker show that on the average about 17-18 percent of GHI housing units change ownership during the course of a year. This figure has shown little fluctuation in recent years. In 1955, there were 259 moves; in 1956, 258; in 1957, 274; and in 1958, 263. Some of these moves, of course, represent people moving from one GHI house to another.

About 57 percent of the sales in 1958 were made through the GHI sales office; the remainder were made directly by owners or by other realtors. This percentage has been steadily increasing since 1955 when sales by the GHI office accounted for only 40 percent of the total. Direct sales by owners dropped from 25 percent in 1955 to 15 percent in 1958.

Recreation Review

By Warren Leddick

Girl Softball: Friday at 10 a.m. teams will be selected for the girls softball league. The Recreation Department has close to 50 names, but every one must be present on Friday morning to be selected for a team. A regular practice will be held with the league starting the following week.

Babe Ruth League: In the league opener on Sunday the Fire Department team defeated the Pharmacy 3-1 in an opening thriller. Bob Radcliffe of the Fire Department was pitching no hit ball up to the sixth inning when catcher Carl Garff of the Pharmacy lined a single into right field. Sherman's hit in the seventh inning was the only other hit off Radcliffe.

Community Building Facilities

The refusal of the county board of education to permit use of the Center School grounds for the Labor Day Festival is a stark reminder to Greenbelt residents that they are about to lose control over an important recreational facility in town.

For years, the Center School has served as a community activities building, providing facilities for (1) Recreation Department-sponsored programs, such as youth dances, gymnastics, tumbling and golf classes, arts and crafts, basketball and table tennis; (2) other youth activities, such as dance classes, Greenbelt Community Band, majorettes, and girl scouts; and (3) adult recreational activities—Garden Club, Toastmasters Club, dance classes, Great Books Club, Golden Age Club, and duplicate bridge club. In addition, the building has served as a meeting place for such organizations as Greenbelt Homes, Inc., Twin Pines, Lakeside Association, and church groups.

The Center School is now scheduled to be sold to the county some time during the summer, with part of the $260,000 proceeds from the sale to be used for the construction of Greenbelt's own recreation building. According to present plans, the new one-story building (often referred to as the Youth Center) will contain a combined gym, skating rink, and dance floor auditorium, two arts and crafts rooms, a game activities room, and one other room for possible use as an auto shop. These plans are expected to be presented before the next meeting of the council in July.

Until the recreation building is completed, however, all adult and youth groups will need to continue to use the Center School facilities. But the county has already indicated that the use of the building for extra-curricular purposes will be curtailed. Thomas Gwynn, county supervisor of school property, has informed the city that classrooms in Center School will no longer be used for recreational activities. This would leave just the auditorium and the social room available for the thirty or more activities that are now using the building. Gwynn also advised that in case of conflict, youth activities would get first preference. Representatives of adult civic and recreational groups especially feel that limiting the school facilities to two rooms, coupled with the priority given youth activities, will mean, in effect, that most adult groups will be barred from the building.

It is true that the city council, recognizing the danger, has authorized the city manager to seek special arrangements with the county that would permit the same groups and activities to use the facilities of the building as heretofore during the interim period between the sale of the building and the completion of Greenbelt's recreation building.

Unfortunately, there is little in the board of education's reaction to the first pleas received for special consideration from a Greenbelt group (the Labor Day Festival committee) to warrant optimism that such an accord can be reached. We hope we are wrong, but, if not, we think the citizenry should be alerted to the possibility that Greenbelt's recreational program may be seriously crippled in the coming year.

Nor is it at all certain that completion of Greenbelt's new recreation building will solve the problem completely, if it is restricted solely to youth activities. While such activities should certainly be given priority, there is no reason why the building should not also be accessible to other groups in town either for recreational or civic purposes. The city council before approving the final plans for the recreation building should make it clear that such groups are to be accommodated, whenever possible—perhaps until such time as the new Municipal Building has similar facilities available.

Works of Young Greenbelt Poets Published In Book Form By Library

by Russ Greenbaum

The newest addition to the Greenbelt Library is a book of poems written by a group of local youngsters attending the city's elementary schools. Called "The Poetry Hour: An Anthology," the book is a limited edition published by the Prince Georges County Memorial Library and not available for circulation. It is the product of a poetry group organized and conducted by Greenbelt Librarian Majorie Muir in an unusual experiment. (Copies of the book will be distributed only to members of the group.)

The group was started by Mrs. Muir when she noticed that some of her young readers had a deep interest in poetry. Although it was originally intended to limit the group to those in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades, some third graders who were advanced were admitted to the group. They really proved themselves, turning out to be the most prolific poets in the group. Three of the third graders contributed ten poems to the book or almost half the total output.

The purpose of the poetry group was not primarily to write poetry, and only about half did so. Mrs. Muir, who emphasizes that she is a librarian and not a teacher, was mainly interested in the children's gaining enjoyment from reading poetry and listening to it read either by her, members of the group, or in recorded form. She also encouraged them to discuss the poems, expressing just the way they felt about them. They were spared the ordeal, which comes later in school, of learning to recognize an iambic pentameter or any of the rules of poetry.

No other poetry group of its kind has ever before been organized in this area, including our rival county which shall be nameless. The county library made a search for similar groups and found only evidence of something like it out in California. Mrs. Muir herself had no idea of what kind of response she might get. She was somewhat appalled when 50 children turned out for the first meeting. By the next meeting, however, the group had shaken down to 20 and then to 16, which was the average attendance during the seven sessions held every two weeks throughout the school year. At least three boys came regularly, rising above the caustic and incredulous comments of their playmates.

The final portion of each session was a candle-lighting ceremony. A colored candle was lit ceremoniously, provided that at least one member of the group had brought his or her original poem to be read to the group. The candle never failed to be lit. What surprised and delighted Mrs. Muir more than anything else was the eager desire of many members of the group to read aloud their poetry to the other children and the poise with which they recited their creative verse. It is these poems which were collected and printed in a neat mimeographed book in green ink with a salmon pink specially designed cover, all of this voluntarily done by the staff of the county library.

As might be expected, most of the poems were inspired by the coming of spring, but each young poet has a different outlook. All took their work seriously, and none of it is in the doggerel rhymes usually associated with youngsters.

One fifth grader saw spring with rich imagination:

Nature is getting dressed for town.

She is wearing her flowered hat,

And turquoise gown

With white puffed sleeves,

And shoes of green

Indeed, she is fit to be a queen!

On the other hand, a third grade boy noted the things that happen in spring:

The flowers are growing.

The grass needs mowing.

The trees are getting green.

Some boys think it is keen.

A third grade girl, obviously well advanced for her years, was able to express a sensuous enjoyment of spring:

The trees have flowers, and have leaves,

They sway to and fro, in the soft, warm breeze.

The air is perfumed and so sweet.

*"When I want to use the phone, I want to use the phone NOW
...that's why I have an individual line"*

Very shrewd of you indeed, sir! But you're not alone. Lots of folks we know are changing from party lines to individual lines. And for exactly the same reason. To avoid the frustration of having to wait.

There are other reasons why our customers have individual lines. People can call them in a hurry. Fast service in emergencies. And complete privacy on all calls.

Call the Service Representative at our Business Office and ask about your individual line.
